

Marquart Conferring With Johnson on Way To Move Americans

Commander of U.S. Yangtze Patrol at Nanking for Parley—
10 Americans Quit Chinese Capital Yesterday.

Japanese Continue to Pound
Chinese "Hindenberg Line"
Outside Shanghai.

Nanking, Nov. 19 (AP).—Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, commander of the United States Yangtze river patrol, arrived today to confer with Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson on means of evacuating Americans.

Ten Americans left Nanking by boat yesterday, expecting to reach Shanghai in six days.

Admiral Marquart said that en route to Nanking aboard the gunboat Luzon he found 156 Americans at Kuling, in Kiangsi Province, with supplies for an all winter stay.

Crack Southern Pivot

Shanghai, Nov. 19 (AP).—Japanese troops today cracked the southern pivot of the Chinese "Hindenberg" line, defending Nanking and struck shattering blows along its central and northern fronts.

Fighting through mud and rain, the Japanese drove last Chinese defenders from Kasling and occupied that vital southern link in the "Hindenberg" chain. Centred Japanese columns approached to within three miles of Soochow, the line's keystone, and northern detachments threatened to make untenable Chinese positions at Changshu.

About 125 miles northwest of the line, twelve Chinese divisions under the veteran General Tang Sheng-Chi entrenched themselves in strong defense positions just outside Nanking. The Nanking official spokesman declared they were prepared to defend the city "to the last."

Inside Nanking's walls, two divisions of Szechwan Province troops, rushed to the capital from the interior after Shanghai fell into Japanese hands November 9. Prepared defense posts to be used in case the city eventually is encircled and besieged.

United States and other foreign embassies completed arrangements to evacuate Nanking and follow the Chinese foreign office to Hankow as soon as Chinese officials announced the shift.

Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson was understood to be ready to go to Hankow on an American gunboat. He would be accompanied by Willis R. Peck, counselor of the embassy, and Clayton W. Aldridge, second secretary. J. Hall Paxton and George Atcheson, Jr., second secretaries, were expected to remain in Nanking.

Dispatches from Tsingtao, seaport of the North China province of Shantung, said the Chinese fifty-first army was hurrying westward to reinforce Chinese lines south of the Yellow river.

Chinese Repulse Attacks

Chinese were said to have repulsed three Japanese attempts to cross the stream but fighting was in progress at Lokow, just south of the river and north of Tsinanfu, the provincial capital.

Heavy artillery firing was heard north of Tsinanfu. Consul John M. Allison left the city for Nanking, but 30 Americans remained.

Chinese officers said they expected Japanese to attempt a landing along Laichow Bay for a drive toward Weihai to isolate the Shantung Peninsula from the mainland. Japanese have extensive commercial interests in the area.

Following the center of the "Hindenberg" line 50 miles west of Shanghai, Japanese advancing along the Shanghai-Nanking railroad reached Nansuiku, the last Chinese defense line before Soochow itself.

BOY AVENGES FATHER SHOT IN FAMILY ROW

New York, Nov. 19 (AP).—Police today credited a hammer swinging boy of six, George Doiron, Jr., with having avenged the shooting of his father during a family fight last night.

George's father, 42, superintendent of an upper West Side apartment house, (110 Seaman ave.) was in Jewish Hospital with two bullet wounds.

Andrew Kay, 23, a brother-in-law of the elder Doiron, was in a police cell nursing hammer blows on face and shoulders and charged with felonious assault.

Police said Kay called at the Doiron apartment to discuss a possible reconciliation between Doiron and his wife. A fist fight followed and Doiron called on his son to get a hammer and help him.

When the boy returned from the kitchen with the hammer, he found his father slumped and sprawled on the floor. Without hesitation he launched into such a furious assault on Kay that the latter fled from the house only to be arrested shortly afterward.

THIRD ESCAPED O'CONNELL KIDNAPER CAPTURED

Percy Geary, third member of the O'Connell kidnap gang who escaped from the Onondaga County Penitentiary in Jamestown, N. Y., is shown in the clutches of a half dozen police officers in Syracuse, N. Wright Prepares Unwritten Law Defense Today

Glendale, Calif., Nov. 19 (AP).—His "chin up," Paul A. Wright, 33, airport president, prepared an unwritten law defense today for his trial on a double charge for shooting his wife and best friend.

"I'm keeping my chin up," he said. "I've got to beat this case for the sake of my little girl, Helen." She is three years old.

Wright withheld his "full story" at his preliminary hearing yesterday, when 80-year-old Police Judge Frank Lowe set his arraignment for December 6. But part of his statement to police that he "caught" his wife, Evelyn, 28, "cheating" in the arms of John Kimmel, his business associate, was read.

"I was so perfectly astounded," his statement said. "They looked up, smiled and kissed again, then things went perfectly white hot."

Kimmel, 32, and married, had accompanied him home, Wright told police, early the morning of November 9. Wright said he went into a bedroom for a nap, later to awake and find Kimmel and Mrs. Wright embracing on the piano bench.

Jerry Geisler, Wright's attorney, drew from police testimony that Kimmel's clothing was "disarranged." But Mrs. Wright's was not. County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner testified the bullets striking Mrs. Wright entered from the back, while Kimmel's wounds were in the front.

Police asked Wright, the statement showed, if he suspected Kimmel and his wife were "particularly intimate" and he replied, "No, not she and Kimmel, but I had suspected her on many occasions with others."

HEADLESS BODY FLOURED FROM OLD WELL TODAY

St. George, Utah, Nov. 19 (AP).—A headless body, exhumed from an old well into which it was cast nearly three years ago, mutely verified today the strange confessions of two men of a killing disclosed by neighborhood gossip.

The body was identified by trousseurs, sweater, belt and shoes, said Sheriff Antonio B. Prince, as that of Spencer Malan, 35, who disappeared March 17, 1935.

A first degree murder charge was filed against Charles Bossard, 25, who told Prince he killed Malan in a ranch fight and later married the man's widow, George Schaefer, 33, her brother, who said he helped "dispose" of the body, faces the same charge.

Emily Still in Air When Waiter Brings Check

New York, Nov. 19 (AP).—Emily Post, who, by her own estimate has penned 5,000,000 words in 15 years on what to do and when to do it, still has not settled the problem of how a woman should behave when the waiter presents the check.

"There ought to be some give and take," she told an audience at the New York Times book fair yesterday. "There is need for a brand new order of manners."

Equality prevails in the business world, she pointed out, for there men and women work as companions and lunch as co-workers. But in the evening—that's another story.

Yet, said she, "that isn't fair when women are often earning as much or more than the men who entertain them. I think it is perfectly fair if he takes her once and she takes him another time. I think my next book will have to be entirely about this."

Public Hearing Tonight on Truck Traffic in City

Alderman S. H. Peyer, chairman of the traffic control committee of the Common Council, will hold a public hearing this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the council chambers in the city hall on the question of truck traffic in the city. Recently Mayor C. J. Heiselman in a communication to the council called attention to complaints received by him of noises caused by heavy truck traffic through residential streets of the city, and the mayor recommended that the traffic control committee make an investigation and see what action could be taken to eliminate the cause of the complaints if possible.

It is expected that both operators of heavy truck lines that use the city streets as well as residents who complain of the noise of operation will be present at the hearing to present their views in the matter.

The hearing is held by the traffic control committee for the purpose of obtaining what information the public can give before any definite action is taken in submitting a report to the council.

Winne Is Freed on Assault Charge by County Court Jury

Not guilty of the crime of assault, second degree, as charged in the indictment, was the verdict returned Thursday afternoon by an Ulster county jury in the Clark Winne case. Winne was charged with assaulting State Trooper Walter Keefe on October 5 last, after the defendant had been arrested on a disorderly conduct charge at his home in Quarryville. The jury was out over an hour and a half.

Aquitted on the charge on which he had been tried before Judge Trotter, Winne was arrested under a charge framed in a second indictment. He was re-committed to jail.

The acquittal of Winne came from a jury of 10 men and two women after a trial which lasted two days, and during which no testimony was given by the defense, other than cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses and brief questioning of Trooper Keefe in relation to the complaint made in the disorderly conduct case, which was disposed of in justice's court by a conviction.

Double Jeopardy

William Kelly, who with Raymond Mino, appeared for the defendant, charged that the defendant, Winne, has twice been placed in jeopardy for the same crime. In substantiating that contention he asked the trooper whether he had not given the same testimony in justice's court as on the present trial and whether or not the charge in justice's court had not been that of threat, but to assault an officer as well as disorderly conduct in using vile language. Trooper Keefe said he had drawn up information and those were the charges. He related to an act which had taken place on the highway prior to arrest and that the assault charge being tried in county court grew out of an act which took place later partly on the highway and partly on the Winne property when the officer was attempting to place Winne in the patrol car.

The second charge under which Winne is now being held grows out of the same transaction but upon another officer.

With the prosecution closing its case before the noon recess Thursday, the afternoon session opened with Trooper Keefe being called by the defense and being asked as to the drawing of the information in the disorderly conduct case which resulted in a conviction in justice's court. The officer said he had testified only as to the disorderly conduct charge before Justice Bennett at Saugerties on that occasion and was now testifying to another act, that which took place by the trooper car and not on the highway.

This concluded the testimony with Trooper Keefe telling the jury both he and Sergeant James Cunningham had black-jacks in their possession that night but that they had refrained from using them.

Makes Motions

Mr. Kelly then asked that the jury step out while motions were made and the court so directed. Mr. Kelly then moved for a dismissal and discharge on the grounds that the defendant, Winne, had twice been placed in jeopardy for the same crime committed on the same person, Walter Keefe.

Mr. Murray for prosecution stated that the charge on which Winne had been arrested and tried in justice's court was disorderly conduct on the highway near the McLaughlin car and the charge now in court was for an assault upon an officer some few moments later at a different place, that is on the Winne premises and by the State Trooper's car.

Judge Traver said it appeared that there were two separate transactions, one on the public highway and one on the Winne property some appreciable time later and while the transactions

YOUTH'S RUSE

Attendant at Lot Sends Customer After Policeman to Make Capture.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 19 (AP).—It was freedom's end for three members of the 1933 O'Connell kidnap gang—their capture effected through information supplied by a janitor and a parking lot attendant.

Percy "Angel Face" Geary, leader of the desperado triumvirate which staged a daring escape from the Onondaga county penitentiary at nearby Jamestown, N. Y., early Tuesday morning, was seized yesterday afternoon in a Syracuse parking lot shanty.

The other two, John Oley and Harold Crowley, recaptured Wednesday in a Syracuse rooming house on a tip supplied by a janitor—Ivan Whiteford, exactly 36 hours after their escape, were brought to Albany and lodged in the Albany county jail.

Meanwhile from Washington the justice department ordered two investigations of the escape, one through the Federal Prison Bureau and the other through federal agents' questioning of the recaptured prisoners about the identity of a go-between who may have smuggled them guns.

District Attorney William C. Martin obtained a court order to impound a grand jury of 24 and planned to begin Monday an investigation into the break.

Agents Seek Custody

Federal agents sought to obtain custody of Geary last night at police headquarters but were refused by Syracuse police until after routine identification was completed. District Attorney Martin said the agents would need a court order to assume custody.

The trio faced long prison terms for the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell, Jr., of Albany. They were being held in the Onondaga jail pending an appeal and were slated to become inmates of Alcatraz prison. Five others were convicted at the same time at Binghamton last August.

Youth Furnishes Tip

It was Casper Mirra, 20, a parking lot attendant who furnished the tip which led to Geary's capture.

Geary, injured when he leaped from a second floor window to escape capture at the time his two companions were seized, hobbled a block and a half to a warehouse across the street from a parking lot.

Mirra told police he called to Geary to "come on over and get warm. I've got a stove in here and that Geary jumped over and entered the shack.

He stayed there 24 hours while Mirra obtained food and discussed the jail break. The attendant informed police after his suspicions were aroused when in a conversation with the escaped prisoner, Geary said "If I caught those poor fellows I don't think I'd turn them in."

Sends for Officer

Mirra sent a parking lot customer after a policeman. Patrolman Tom Lewis walked up to the shanty with drawn gun and captured Geary—worn and hungry. Several bullets were taken from Geary's pocket when he was searched. No gun was found.

The capture ended a feverish three-day hunt by federal agents, state police and local authorities, instructed to "shoot to kill." But not a single shot was fired when the three prisoners were seized, all surrendering meekly.

Land Speed Record Set at 311.43 Miles

Bondville Salt Flats, Utah, Nov. 19 (AP).—Capt. George Eyston of England today set a new world's land speed record of 311.42 miles per hour.

The genial captain from London flashed through the mile and back again in "Thunderbolt", a 24-cylinder racing plant, for an average of 11.56 seconds.

Eyston's speed, the fastest man has ever traveled in an automobile, exceeded Sir Malcolm Campbell's record of 301.1292 miles per hour by a wide margin.

Campbell made his mark here in September, 1935.

Eyston, a thin, scrawny man of 40 who retired from the British army several years ago, elipped the northward mile in 11.59 seconds for an average speed of 305.31 miles per hour and then sped back in 11.23 seconds for a speed of 317.74 miles per hour.

Simpsons on Quiet Trip; Bedaux on Way to Windsor

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 19 (AP).—The Ernest A. Simpsons, who slipped quietly out of New York to be wed in an unostentatious ceremony, were honeymooning today.

Friends said they were headed for Vermont and would return to New York December 10 and sail for London, where they will live.

They were married at the Brooklawn Country Club in nearby Fairfield by Justice of the Peace Ned E. Osmark, who said he had never before performed a marriage ceremony.

Justice Bradford Boardman waived the state five-day marriage law, which includes a blood test requirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Simpson, parents of the groom, a sister of the bride and a few close friends were present and later attended a luncheon for the bridal pair.

Mrs. Simpson obtained a Reno divorce last week from Jacques A. L. Ralphy, New York broker.

Yesterday's bride, through whom Simpson met the former Wallis Warfield, was a bridesmaid when Commander E. Winfield Spencer, U. S. N., became the Duchess' first husband in 1916. Both were prominent in Baltimore society in that era.

Halifax-Hitler Meeting

Berchtesgaden, Germany, Nov. 19 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler, on the doorstep of his Bavarian mountain home, today welcomed Britain's friendship emissary, Viscount Halifax, for a seven-hour visit and possibly an exchange of views on Germany's Colonial ambitions.

Neither Hitler nor Halifax entered upon the tête-à-tête expecting more than mutual exploratory soundings.

The Reichsfuehrer was determined to keep the leader of the British House of Lords in a position where, in order to take anything concrete home with him, he had to make concrete offers.

From the German viewpoint, Hitler, by his various pronouncements in recent months, had made his position clear on questions like colonies, multilateral pacts, armaments and return to the League of Nations.

Officially inspired organs had publicized Nazi demands of autonomy for Germans in Czechoslovakia and had given expression to other points of Nazi European policy.

Hence, in the German view, it was up to Halifax in today's chats to state Britain's proposals on these questions. Even British sources doubted that Halifax came with such far-reaching powers—nor did Hitler expect he carried them.

British as well as German official sources maintained the strictest silence regarding the topics for discussion.

Hitler's automobile was waiting at the railroad station when the Viscount's train pulled in from Berlin. Halifax was accompanied by German Foreign Minister Constantin Von Neurath.

Quickly they were whisked away to Hitler's mountain estate where the chancellor personally welcomed Halifax at the door.

Unofficial quarters believed Hitler might inform his guest fully of German efforts to mediate the Chinese-Japanese conflict as one of the several possible points of the day's discussion.

House Committee Votes Market- ing Quotas for Corn, Tard Down Processing Taxes on Both Corn and Wheat.

TAX DECISION

Sub-committee Tentatively Agrees to Increase the Exemptions from Profits Tax.

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP).—Congressional committees neared completion of farm control bills today while Senators and Representatives devoted another day to talk.

Chairman Smith (D-SC) announced his Senate committee would vote tomorrow on an "over-normal granary" bill. The House committee, taking up individual items, voted marketing quotas for corn and voted down processing taxes on both corn and wheat.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) continued a filibuster by southerners against the anti-lynching bill. The House, starting another day of varied debate, was prevented from considering a resolution to declare that a state of war exists between Japan and China. There was a single objection to consideration, which required unanimous consent.

A similar resolution was being considered for the Senate. Senator Nye (R-ND), a member of the bipartisan group of Senators would next week "to determine whether such a measure should be drafted."

A House tax subcommittee tentatively agreed today to increase the exemptions from the undistributed profits tax and to make up some of the revenue that would be lost by boosting the normal corporate tax.

Business Developments

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP).—Widespread efforts of the government and private industry to stimulate business activity produced these developments today:

The housing conference of the United States Chamber of Commerce endorsed a seven-point program, headed by publicly to popularize home owning, as a means of increasing residential construction.

A high federal official indicated President Roosevelt may provide loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to help the home building campaign.

A house tax subcommittee, having agreed tentatively to exempt from the undistributed profits tax all corporations with net incomes under $5,000, is seeking a method of giving graduated exemptions to larger corporations.

Speaker Bankhead, endorsing the unemployment census, indicated congress would study methods of stimulating industries which could absorb idle labor.

The Chamber of Commerce meeting said home building could be stimulated by:

Stronger competition against other bidders for the prospective home-owner's dollar, correcting misconceptions of building costs, adjustment of business taxes, rewriting obsolete building codes, coordination within the building industry, better financing, and support of labor.

Economic Advantages

First of all, a committee report said, prospective purchasers of small homes must be sold on the economic advantages of home ownership.

It was learned the RFC is prepared to match dollars with private interests in subscribing capital for national mortgage associations, which would build large scale housing projects and buy mortgages to unfreeze other capital already invested in real estate.

Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, made a similar offer more than a year ago but found no takers because of alleged defects in the law authorizing the charter of such associations. Remedial amendments have been suggested.

Borrowing would be done by public sale of bonds and debentures, guaranteed as to principal and 3 per cent interest by the Federal Housing Authority.

Although there appeared little chance congressional leaders would call for a revision of business taxes before the regular session in January, a House subcommittee was going ahead with its study of methods of easing the undistributed profits and capital gains levies.

Aid for Corporations

Chairman Vinson, (D., Ky.), said a system for aiding corporations with incomes above $5,000 cannot be worked out until the Treasury determines how various proposals would affect federal income. Some of these would:

Grant all corporations a flat exemption of perhaps $5,000. Provide complete exemption for all corporations with incomes up to 25,000 or $30,000. Exempt a graduated percentage of income, the percentages being relatively high for corporations

How to Be a "Reg'lar" Fellow—Without Pills

There's a better way to get on the "regular" side than by overstimulating your intestines with cathartics. Get up the vestibular curve and eat a natural laxative food—Kelllogg's All-Bran.

Instead of abusing your intestines, All-Bran supplies TWO things they need. First, it's a good source of vitamin "B,"—the vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract. Second, All-Bran provides "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination.

Eat this crunchy, toasted cereal with milk or cream and fruits—or in cooking. But however you eat it, use it regularly. Eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Made by Kelllogg in Battle Creek. At every grocer's.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

IN ANY SPOT IN YOUR HOME SOME LOVELY PLANT CAN GROW

Yes even those north windows, those dull corners can blossom into beauty. There's an easy-to-grow plant for each spot.

What's the answer to north windows? The clivia miniata and its brilliant orange flowers. Water your plant sparingly, move to a warmer spot if the room goes below 40 degrees and your clivia blooms will be a mid-winter joy, the glossy green leaves a year-round pleasure.

In dull corners—the dracaena. This graceful foliage plant looks handsomer if you don't pamper it. A little water and an occasional leaf-bath are all it asks.

Odd tables? Transform them into little beauty bowers with the exquisite paper white narcissus. Start a batch of bulbs now, start more every few weeks and have continuous blooms until spring.

Set the bulbs in a bowl with enough pebbles or moss to lift two thirds of each bulb above water. Keep in a cool dark spot until roots are one inch long.

More tips on easy-to-raise indoor gardens are given in our 40-page booklet, SUCCESS WITH HOUSE PLANTS AND FLOWERS. Vines, bulbs, ferns, flowering plants. How to water, repot, force slips, keep pests away.

FOR GROWING HYACINTHS USE A HYACINTH GLASS

(By The Master Gardener)

A very simple method of growing hyacinths for the indoor garden is through the use of a hya-

cynth glass. These are so made that the bulb will not fall

through, yet is wide enough to allow the lower part of the bulb

to settle below the blim and give good support.

For this method, obtain the largest or mammoth bulbs, and do not start the bulb until about the first of November.

If possible, fill the glass with rain water. Add two or three pieces of charcoal the size of a walnut. A half-inch of coarse sand or pebbles, washed thoroughly, may be added to the bottom of the glass to keep the container from tipping over when the top growth develops.

Place the bulb in the cup-shaped hyacinth glass and keep

just enough water in the glass

so the base of the bulb is just above the water level. Place in a dark, fairly warm room for about ten days to start the roots

growing. Then move to a cool dark room or cellar where the temperature ranges from 40 to 50 degrees. To exclude every bit of light, cover the glass with a cone of thick dark paper. Examine each week and add water

if needed, but do not lift the bulb

or damage to roots will result.

In a period of 8 to 12 weeks,

there should be a thick mass of

roots in the jar, and the top

should have sprouted slightly.

When the roots have reached the bottom of the glass and the top

growth is about an inch in height,

bring into the shaded window of a cool room, keeping the paper

cone in place until the sprout has reached a height of 4 to 6 inches.

Then remove the cone and in about two days move to a sunny window and turn daily. Avoid high temperatures, however. Add

tepid water to keep the water at the proper height.

If you follow these directions,

you will have a strong healthy spike of bloom.

A man-about-town might be described as a fellow who can be perfectly attired for any occasion

without smelling of moth balls.

DRUG FROM MIDDLE AGES PRODUCES GIANT PLANTS

Geneva, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Recent newspaper reports on the work of

Dr. A. F. Blakeslee of Cold

Spring Harbor with the drug

"colchicine" in producing giant

forms of plant growth has focused

attention on studies with this drug

in progress at the State Experiment Station here where its effects are being investigated in connection with the Station's fruit

breeding project.

In the course of these investigations, Dr. M. L. Ruttle and Dr. B.

R. Nebel, working under a grant from the Harkness Laboratory in Schenectady, have this past year

produced several giant marigolds,

a giant snap-dragon, and a giant petunia. They have also obtained changes of a less favorable nature

in tomatoes and poppies, indicating that the use of colchicine may have detrimental as well as advantageous effects from the standpoint of the plant breeder.

Plants' Winter Bedding Made Of Glass 'Wool'

A flower bed gets a glass "wool" blanket.

By The L.P. Feature Service

Delicate plants now can take their winter naps under a warm blanket of glass "wool," free from danger of frost and hard freezes. The "wool" is made of fibers of glass finer than human hair. It is snow-white, as soft as cotton fluff, and so light a four-year-old could muscle up a boxhead of it. Its properties as a "mulch," or winter covering for plants, were discovered by R. C. Allen, of Cornell University. It is sterile, lets in a little air and light, keeps out rodents, insects, weeds. It comes in rolls, like cotton, is easily spread, as demonstrated in the picture; and may be rolled up and stored for use year after year. The glass "wool" is made by several companies. At the Corning Glass Works, Corning, N. Y., the output in one day, if stretched in a single fiber, would reach from earth to the sun.

Doctors to Attend State Pneumonia Institute Nov. 23

Dr. F. W. Laidlow, district health officer of Middletown, has recommended Dr. F. W. Holcomb and Dr. F. H. Voss as Ulster county's quota of two physicians to attend the State Pneumonia Institute to be held at the New York Hospital on Tuesday, November 23.

The doctor's at the institute will be given the latest information on the early diagnosis and the latest in treatment of pneumonia, so that they in turn may be able to act as consultants to physicians throughout this area in cases of pneumonia, when needed.

Dr. Holcomb and Dr. Voss are both internists and fellows of the American College of Physicians.

The housewife who carelessly uses lead arsenate or calcium arsenate in cooking instead of flour in the future will have no excuse except that she is color blind for manufacturers of these insecticides have decided to color them a distinctive pink. Many cases of accidental food poisoning occur because arsenicals are stored in pantry shelves along side flour, soda, baking powder, and similar white powdered foods. The arsenicals are like-wise white powders, and have no distinctive odor to warn the careless cook.

Lower Insurance Rates / r / Sought

The effort being made by the insurance agents of Ulster county in which the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association is cooperating resulted Thursday afternoon in a meeting being held in the Wiltwyck fire station with R. D. Kelly, rating engineer of the Syracuse division of the National Board of Fire Underwriters with Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of this city and Chief C. G. A. Flecher of Ellenville and Superintendent James F. Loughran of the county highway department. The fire chiefs represented the volunteer firemen.

An effort is being made to place Ulster county in the Class A rating which would mean lower insurance rates if adopted. The city of Kingston already has a Class A rating.

The fire chiefs brought to the attention of Mr. Kelly the mutual aid plan adopted by the county firemen while Mr. Loughran who had prepared maps of the fire districts in the county explained the maps which showed each fire department in the county and listed the fire fighting equipment of each department. It was brought out that under the mutual aid plan it was proposed to establish a central clearing office, probably located in Kingston, and that when a fire broke out in any area in the county and aid was needed that word would be telephoned the clearing office which would be told the kind of apparatus needed in combating the fire and would assign an adjoining fire department to go to the assistance of the fire department in which the fire was raging.

At the close of the conference Mr. Kelly said he would lay the matter before the state organization.

SON TESTIFIES AGAINST FATHER

Noel Newton (above) testified for the state in the trial of his father, the Rev. C. E. Newton, charged with the slaying of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, a former Sunday school teacher in his Paris, Mo., church, Pittsfield, Ill., is the scene of the trial.

Dr. Donald Laird, Colgate University psychologist, urges business men to eat light mid-day lunches to prevent "anemia of the brain." Dr. Laird said tests have shown the digestive tract takes blood away from the brain after a heavy lunch. He said light lunches make for better memory, faster and more accurate figuring and better concentration.

The organization will probably be in the form of a club, welcoming members from all Ulster county. Members of the committee are Thomas Penning, Towar Boggs, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Percy Hill, Harold Lupo, M. Potruccelli, Dyrus Cook, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Friedburg. The Woodstock Artists Association has granted the use of their gallery as a dance hall this winter. The first dance will be held on December 1.

whose incomes are only slightly above $3,000 and moving gradually downward until corporations with $50,000 or $100,000 income would receive no exemption.

To offset an estimated revenue loss of $19,900,000 from exempting corporations with net incomes below $5,000, the subcommittee was considering an increase in the normal corporate tax. Some members proposed that this tax start at 11 or 12 per cent and graduate up to 13½, 16, and 19 per cent.

The result of these efforts to help business—housing construction, tax modification, and the like—will influence administration decisions on future work relief expenditures. The unemployment census now being taken, federal officials said, also will be a factor.

House Democratic Leader Rayburn said last night in a radio appeal for support of the census: "To put several million men back to work requires that we shall decide whether government is to make work, or private industry is to absorb them."

Speaker Bankhead, appearing on the same program, said that after the information about the jobless is tabulated, "we can give consideration intelligently to plans for the stimulation of those industries which would absorb these workers and make of them productive units in our national economy."

WHOSE RELIEF JOB?

The mayors of 150 cities met in Washington for a three-day conference on the same day that the Congress convened. The mayors were there to discuss the problems of local government and particularly that of relief. The mayors say they will need much federal money again this winter "if present business conditions continue or get worse." They were nearly unanimous in their stand that local communities can not yet take on more of the relief burden.

It happens in the face of the federal government's announced
determination to reduce expenditures and balance the budget. That is a move which the public has been urging with increasing firmness. At least, the public demands budget-balancing and economy when it talks of national affairs, taxes and business.

It is a different proposition, apparently, when we get down to local government and local needs.
Many cities, counties and states,
have not set their own houses in order and do not seem to know how to do so. Their own debts are large. Their own extravagance and waste prove difficult to curb. Their own needs are clamoring for help. What is the answer? It is a challenge a democracy should be able to meet successfully, but it requires more realism, more honesty, and more sacrifice on the part of every community and every citizen and every public official than we yet have.

In Ulster county the annual report of the county treasurer
shows that the county is in excellent condition financially, with no bonded indebtedness and that it has not been necessary to borrow any money during the last year for any purpose whatsoever.
In addition there are sufficient funds on hand to meet all requirements until funds from the next
tax levy become available.

CIVILIZATION TOTTERING?

"It is a simple truth," says
The Nation, "that the civilization of the world is threatened with extinction. Normal people shrink from a concept so sensational, but the fact remains.
We have watched, year by year,
the successful encroachments of the forces of violence and barbarism: upon Manchuria, Ethiopia, Spain, and now all of China;
upon long-established institutions
of humanity and enlightenment
in the Fascist countries themselves. We have seen primitive tribal loyalties and superstitions darken modern minds. We see trade languish and international finance resort to makeshift forms of barter.
We are witnessing what may be the beginning of an end. The anti-Communist pact, uniting Italy
with Germany and Japan, presents this major threat in concrete and tested terms: the Fascist international is organized and prepared for united action.
Meanwhile the non-Fascist
countries are at odds with each other and themselves. Russian Communism, at least for the time being, is much less menacing to the world than Fascism, but democratic nations hesitate to act with her. The only present promise of continued freedom, culture and civilization as we have known it seems to be cooperation on the part of the United States, the British Empire, France and a few small nations of western Europe. Perhaps these must draw their lines tighter.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL
In the past year of its ministrations the American Red Cross was called upon to help victims of 128 disasters. Floods, fires, earthquakes, tornadoes, epidemics are the natural catastrophes
in which the Red Cross gives not only first aid but continuing aid until the need is over. Within the last year or two it has added

to its services that of traffic first aid, establishing 1,223 stations
along the country's main highways, with attendants always in readiness to help victims of motor accidents.

In addition to its special relief work, the Red Cross carries on regularly an educational program which trains many individuals in
first aid, home nursing, hygiene, life-saving, and so on. The Junior Red Cross, in particular, is teaching future citizens how to protect their own health, to avoid accidents and to give the right sort of help when emergencies arise.

This is the time of year—Anniversary Day to Thanksgiving—
when the Red Cross calls the roll,
asking old members to respond
again and new ones to join in this great humanitarian enterprise. Last year there were more than 12,000,000 enrolled members. The number should be increased.

GADDDING ABOUT.

We're certainly getting to be
the greatest travelers in history.
Transportation experts figure that the average American will travel
2,000 miles during the present year. This would be about 3,000 miles for all the members of an average family together. Since the children travel much less than the grown-ups, it might be a yearly average of 4,000 or 5,000
miles for the latter.

The most impressive thing
about the figures is their trend.
The present year's travel per person is said to be four times as large as it was in 1920. Most of it is naturally in motor cars. The annual total traveled in private automobiles is now said to be at least eight times as great as was the passenger-mile rate in 1920,
when railroad travel was at its height. It's well, though, for the comfort of motorists, not to go too far in bragging about the superiority of automobile travel to railroad travel. The latter is incomparably safer.

TO REDUCE WEIGHT

A large institution, employing hundreds of men and women office workers, has a lunch room for each department. Hearing a discussion on weight reduction
among the women employees, the head of the department broke in to the discussion with the remark that anyone could reduce weight
if they had enough will power—
will power enough to refuse to eat
less food, particularly bread, potatoes, sugar, pastry, butter and fat.

Did you ever try it? he was asked.

"No," he replied, "but I know
I can take off a pound a day for ten days just to show you that it can be done." He was not overweight—six feet tall, 150 pounds, age 45. The employees admitted that there was no need for him
to reduce from the standpoint of appearance.

There was a set of scales in the department and he was weighed every day. Sure enough, the weight came off at the rate of one pound a day and at the end of the ten days he had taken off exactly ten pounds. He was kind enough or wise enough not to say, "I told you so."

When asked how he had been able to accomplish the task he had set for himself—to lose a pound a day for ten days—he said
he just sat down and figured out what his daily diet really contained: Cream in his cereal in the morning, cream in his coffee (two cups), three slices of bacon, two slices of toast well buttered,
lunch—bacon and egg, two slices
of sandwich with coffee, and a piece of pie, dinner—soup, meat and vegetables, custard or other dessert, a glass of whole milk, fat content.

Knowing that starch foods, fat foods and all liquids were the foods that stored fat in the body,
he used milk on his cereal and in his coffee, one square of butter,
one slice of toast, one slice of bacon, and one cup of coffee for breakfast.

For lunch he left out the pie,
and drank water instead of coffee
with cream and sugar. For dinner he left out the soup, the potatoes and the dessert and drank skimmed milk.
About ten days later he was asked to step on the scales and he put the ten pounds back on his body. All he said was, "I just wanted to prove that will power
was all that was needed to reduce weight."

'The Cheap Thing I Am'

RICHARD took away the hand
that was underneath, and reached in his pocket for his cigarette case. Then he took the top hand away, patting her first, and reached for his lighter.

They were both quiet until he puffed out the first puff.
"Suppose you tell me," he suggested, then, "what you had in mind."

"Well, only that I wanted to be decide to do, Richard, darling... whatever you want me to do. Our love has been a hidden, secret

thing long enough, hasn't it?"
She blushed furiously, but she said, bravely: "We had better—
go away, hadn't we, dear?" and added, "Courageously—like Rian and Hester."

He put down his cigarette, and took her hand again in both of his.

"When you speak of going away
together, Nina, I become quite incapable of constructive thought."
But Nina had the feeling he was evading something, stalling for time. A prickling sensation crept up her spine, in little waves.

Now was the time for Richard to tell her that they must each break away from their old life and start a new one, together.

Now was the time to plan about telling her husband and his wife.
Now... but he wasn't doing either of these. Something was wrong. He was stalling for time.

He said: "Our biggest thought,
Nina, bigger even than our love
... has been not to hurt people."
What did he mean? She waited.
But as he talked on, choosing words with care, the little waves
that had been creeping up and down Nina's spine turned into a heavy undertow that seemed to be drawing the very blood right out of her.

Not to hurt people. You speak of telling Hester and David,
darling... but wouldn't that hurt
them? Could you beyond any healing?

He looked at her very gravely,
and, to her horror, Nina realized that he was not sincere. She didn't know just yet, what he was going to say, but she was certain that it was going to be awful.

"Nina—precious—I want you with everything that's in me. I want you to be mine—utterly—
you must; but, lovely, have we
the right to break up two homes
by... by going away together, as you said just now? Couldn't we be—happy without doing that?"

She sat so still, looking down into her lap, that he had no suspicion of all the things that were seething through her.

He knew that she was agreeing, and now her over-coming him. She allowed herself to be drawn.

His lips were against her hair,
now, and he could not see her face.

"Eat Our Cake And..."

"My way," he said, "nobody need be hurt."
She remarked, quietly: "You mean, Richard, that... that we can eat our cake and have it too."

"Why not, darling?" He laughed, softly... and then, remembering his pious role: "Wouldn't that be —kind?"

She said, still in the same quiet voice: "... to have me for your mistress, to sneak off to hotels... or were you planning on using this house? ... To deceive Honey and David, to go right on living, in their homes, accepting their love,
their money... was that your good—kind—plan?"

"Nina!"
He started to turn her around, but she jerked away. Stood up and faced him.

"Tell me! Was it?"
"Nina, my darling, don't make it sound—ugly."
Her brown eyes were blazing.

"Your... your stained-glass expression of sanctity amuses me no end, Richard. It is ugly. As foul as it can be, and you know it. Do you know what I was willing to do? ...
Face them, and our friends, everyone. Face their condemnation, and live together, quite openly. Let ourselves be divorced... anything, but be honest about it. Do..."

Richard had risen, too. A dull red had crept up under his heavy eyelids.

"Nina," he cut in, "you don't understand. It isn't a question of Gloomy Outlook for Europe—But Babson Sees No World War

in Immediate Future

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 19—
There will be no World War in the immediate future. The biggest threat to Europe's peace awaits
the day when Hitler and Mussolini find themselves slipping. Against that day all Europe is squandering fabulous sums on armaments.
If war does not come, inflation will. The real No. 1 Enemy of the world today is not Germany or Italy, but Japan. Having had a few days at home from Europe
to sort out my thoughts and impressions, I want to give readers
my conclusions on European conditions.

Hitler's Goal Toward Baltic

Most all my American friends believe that the next war will start along the shores of the Mediterranean Seas. They may be correct, but I doubt if it will develop out of the Spanish War. Mussolini, however, may lose his head and do something so foolish that England will finally retaliate. I doubt this also. England is rapidly arming to the teeth; but she will take a great deal of insulting talk from Mussolini as long as he does not attempt to take any land or shillings from the British Empire. Here is my idea:

I believe that the next war will start around the Baltic Sea in Lithuania and Latvia.
These two small countries lie
between East Prussia and Russia, to the north of Poland. Now that Italy has taken Ethiopia and Japan is taking North China, Germany thinks she must take something. My guess is that she will expand northeasterly across the Niemen River rather than westerly across the Rhine or southeasterly across the Danube. By working in this direction, Germany enlarges her bread-basket without offending either France or Italy.

Baltic Expansion Logical

Some think that Germany may strike north to Norway and Sweden—or possibly seize Holland and Denmark since she has recently guaranteed the sanctity of Belgium. I do not agree with this.
Germany cannot afford to incur
the enmity of these Scandinavian and adjoining nations. She needs their fish, meat, and dairy products as well as their iron, lumber and aluminum. Besides, England and France would at once fight
Germany if she went to the west or north. Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, and possibly a part of Poland seem the most logical goals of Der Fuhrer.

Not only would these small countries add to the Fatherland's food supply, but the possession of their ports would enable Hitler to bottle up the Russian Communists
by sea. This would be necessary
if Germany ever hopes to take the Ukraine from Russia later, when,
as it, Russia and Japan go to war against each other. Of course, Germany eyes Czechoslovakia,
Rumania, and Yugoslavia en-
viously, but so does Duce.

Hence, I believe that the Little Entente is safe for the present.
But "good night" to those other little nations which Woodrow Wilson formed in 1920!

When to Expect War

Germany is a great homogeneous nation of 67,000,000 people.
Her leaders have made many mistakes. I cannot defend their attitude as to war, or the Jews, or the church. On the other hand, the nation is self-contained—
brave, intelligent, and very proud.
England, Germany, and Russia are destined to be the three greatest nations of Europe. France has already passed her zenith and is fast
declining in manhood and influence. England, spread out all over the world, has her hands full
and will do almost anything to avoid war. She has everything to lose and nothing to gain by conflict.

Hence, I say, "Forget Spain but Watch Germany!" As long as Hitler and Mussolini can hold the confidence of their people there need be no fear of a World War.
They will hold this confidence as long as the economic conditions
within their nations are not too bad.

When food becomes scarce and taxes unbearable, however, their people will revolt and a "war of desperation" will follow. This is some time off. Such a revolt should not occur in both Germany and Italy at the same time. Hitler and Mussolini are only paper allies. Neither trusts the other.

Armament Race Means Inflation
Of course, the present re-armament race cannot continue indefinitely. Preparing for war today is tremendously more expensive than it was 25 years ago. Men can be drafted; but bombing planes, armored motor tanks, and 30-knot airplane carriers must be bought with either gold or goods.
The strain, therefore, on foreign exchange is terrific. This means that Europe is heading for more and more inflation.

If Europe does not fall off a war precipice, she will certainly get buried in an inflation landslide.

I would not have a dollar invested anywhere in Europe! Economically the outlook is very black. Furthermore, in the long run, the United States and Canada must suffer with Europe and inflation also.
I do not agree with many people that a World War is not imminent. Without a spiritual awakening it will come some day, but the fear that it could destroy civilization—regardless of who
"wins," makes every nation mortally afraid of it. As long as those who remember the World War remain in control of nations,
the probabilities are that we have nothing to fear, provided we will keep well-armed and well-protected.

Must Back England

Keeping well-armed means that every city near the sea-coast of the United States must protect itself against the most modern deadly war weapon—bombing planes. We should build "shelters" for our people. Every home should have a bomb-proof and gas-proof room in its basement.
Every attic should be made fireproof, fire patrols should be organized in every city, particularly those on our Pacific Coast. The Japanese and surest way to keep Japanese bombing planes away from Seattle and San Francisco is for Japan to know that every Western home is "bomb-proof."

Yes, I am writing very seriously. The world's real No. 1 Enemy is Japan. Our best defense is to back up England in her foreign policy. She is the only "world policeman" who we can trust today. We must give her courage and moral support—although we must urge her to give Germany's claims very careful consideration.

You have just entered her apart-

the boudoir:
"Throw your things on the floor,
darling... No, give them to Ethel...
Ethel, take his things and give him a drink... And fix me a cup of soup... Maybe he'd rather have a cup of soup too... Darling,
you do love soup, don't you?...
Ethel, fix him a drink and a cup of soup too. I'm exhausted... I've been rehearsing all afternoon...
Some of those dopes slay me..."

"ETHEL, I'll have some coffee with the soup... Maybe he'd like some coffee with his soup...
You do love coffee with your soup,
don't you?... Ethel, fix Mr. Tucker a cup of coffee with his soup and his drink... I declare I'm a wreck... I've been rushing like mad since 1:30... Those dopes...
Those morons... Ethel, anybody calls this afternoon?... I'm hurrying, really, I'm just climbing into these pajamas and I'll be right out... How many calls, Ethel—17?... What do these dopes think I am, a telephone operator... If anybody calls, I'm not in... No, not to anybody... (tinkle-tinkletinkle)... Who is it, Ethel?... It is?... Oh, damnit, I guess I'd bet-am, you dope... Why don't you send me some flowers and take me to dinner... I haven't had flowers in, well, let me see... I haven't had flowers in, well, day after tomorrow will make two days...

No, darling, I'm positively exhausted... I have an interview tomorrow and then rehearsal, and two shows a night at the Rainbow Room... At the supper show last night I was on for an hour and 20 minutes... Positively exhausted,
I was... Listen, darling, I can't really... That's a nice boy, call me again, won't you, thank you, darling, good bye..."

"YOU SEE... See... It's like that all the time... Those dopes calling... Well, maybe I'd be sorry if they didn't call...
Wanta hear some records?...
Ethel, where's the phonograph...
And the records, Ethel... Ethel,
you know where the needles are,
Pardon me, but I'm going to collapse on the floor... I always listen to records better sprawled out on the floor... I'm going to play that take-off on Miss Cornell
you said you liked... See, darling, what a nice floor this is... (tinkletinkle)... Ethel, I positively, emphatically and unreservedly am not at home... I'm exhausted...
No, I can't talk... Who is it?...
Who?... Oh, THAT dope?... No,
I won't talk... I'm exhausbetter talk... Hello?... Oh, hello, darling..."

Sweet Face's Birthday
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
SWEET FACE," said Willy Nilly,
"go to your meadow."
The lamb smiled a sweet, lamb-
ish smile and ran off.
"Now," said Willy Nilly, "what shall we do in his honor?"
"Let's have a picnic," said all the beats at the same time.
"You would think of food now,"
grinned Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Let's have a band concert and a picnic, too," barked Rip.
"That will be all right," growled Jelly Bear, "if we don't play too many tunes and if we get to the food quickly."

"We won't play too many tunes," laughed Willy Nilly. "We're not in practice."
"That's good," growled Honey Bear.

KERHONKSON UNION SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

During the week of November 8 quarterly examinations were conducted in Kerhonkson Union School in grades 1-8 inclusive. Examinations were given in the high school on November 15. Student scholarship seems to be increasingly good this year due to much better study habits on the part of the student body. A new type of rating has been added to the report card this period on a basis of social attitudes. The items include: Works well with group, is obedient, shows respect for rights and property of others, accepts criticism in good spirit, is courteous; Work habits, uses time to good advantage, sees a job through, is self-reliant, uses good judgment, is neat; Personality, is cheerful and agreeable, has self-control. These new items will be used as a basis for participation in general school activities including basketball. It is necessary that a player receive 12 marks out of a possible 24 in order to play. Of course, if a player is below par in his studies, his resignation from the team will be effective immediately.

Last week reading tests for high school students were given to the freshmen and a few others. It was discovered that approximately 30 per cent of the ninth year students are reading on an eighth grade rather than a ninth level. Many of course, are far above grade both in comprehension and rate of reading. Probably a remedial reading class for high school pupils will be the result of these tests which were conducted under the direction of Miss Madeline Sniffen.

The pupils seem to be very well pleased with the pictures which were delivered to them this week. Each year the students have their pictures taken, the purchase of which is optional with them. The school retains a likeness for filing in the pupil's permanent record. Coach Braun will take his basketball team to New Paltz Friday in an attempt to make the opening game of the season a victorious one. Mr. Braun has high hopes this year since most of the members of his team are veterans of last year. William Anderson will drive the team and those pupils who desire to attend in his school bus both to this game and subsequent games out of town. Tickets will be sold to students. The P.T.A. sale proved to be a success in spite of the continuous rain which threatened to put an end to all business. Mrs. Fritz Poord, president of the organization, was very well pleased with the turnout and the cooperation of those who donated their services and articles to the affair. She expects that a similar sale will be conducted sometime in the near future for the benefit of those who were unable to get out due to the heavy rain.

The Minute Girls card party and dance last Friday was fairly well attended by parents, friends and students.

But It's Science

New York—There is one electric light that exists only in the optic nerve and the brain. It is the light that workmen sometimes see near alternate current electrical magnets.

Scientists have believed for a long time that these lights were not real, but were like the "stars" seen with a blow on the head. They were thought due to excitement of the optic nerve.

Lord Rayleigh, one of England's foremost scientists, reports that its plates were exposed for 30 days to the places where magnetic-electric lights would appear, if real. This was 69 times the exposure necessary to detect anything the human eye could see. There was nothing on the plates.

It was probably a "fool experiment," he says in the scientific journal Nature, but he had to know. He arranged a camera so

Railroad Outlook Told Kiwanis at Thursday Meeting

Government subsidy of all other means of transportation is generally wrecking the railroad business and forcing it into bankruptcy, declared Joseph M. Hurley, agricultural and industrial agent of the Ontario and Western Railroad, before the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon, presenting an address entitled "The Railroads' Outlook."

Emphasizing his statement, Mr. Hurley said that 96 Class One railroads were now in the hands of receivers including the road he represented.

Touching briefly upon the need for increased rates, the speaker said that such action was sought from the state at present, and in defense called upon his listeners to figure out transportation rates but costs, because he said that the costs of other means of carrying merchandise was higher, but through subsidy was reduced to appear more favorable.

The speaker then took up the question of subsidized transportation in relation to the railroads' competitors. He classified them as highway, waterway and airway subsidies.

Costly Passenger Fee

Concerning the highways Mr. Hurley stated that from 1920 to 1935 of every highway dollar furnished by city, county and state, 28 1/2 cents was contributed by the passenger and commercial motorist, the actual user of the highway. The remaining 71 1/2 cents comes out of the state general fund, in other words general taxes. Breaking down the use of the highway, he explained that the cost of a passenger license in this state is such that New York state passenger licenses rank among the top 10 in the United States in point of cost and the commercial licenses rank among the lowest six.

Speaking of waterways and subsidies he cited the example of the state barge canal, which costs the taxpayers $10,000,000 per year. The barge canal and other artificial waterways are heavily subsidized, he declared. He also called attention to the harbor improvements and dredging of ports and channels in natural waterways, which he said the taxpayer provides.

Gets Entire 6 Cents

In the matter of airways he called attention to the fact that the railroads in carrying mail gets 1 1/2 cents of the three-cent stamp; but in airmail the air transport company gets the entire six cents of postage and six cents more, provided through taxation. In addition he contended that airports were provided through cities and communities, that beacons were furnished by the federal government and that "beams" were provided through taxation.

"The state subsidizes all forms of transportation, excepting the railroads, to the tune of $100,000,000 per year," he emphasized, and he said that the money was provided through taxation. "While apparently these other forms of transportation are cheaper," he continued, "the cost of them is made up in part by general taxes, which you and I have to pay." He predicted that the proposed rate increases, now sought, if successful, would be only a temporary solution to the problem.

"The real solution," he concluded, "will come when public opinion is made to realize that transportation costs and transportation rates are two different things, and that the railroad of all forms of transportation, is the only type which is self supporting." Failing this solution, he predicted government ownership of railroads would come because it "is the only course left open to the railroad."

$300,000 Is Not A "Surplus," Says Treasurer Boice

County Treasurer Pratt Boice's attention was called to the remarks of Judge B. A. Culliton before the Ulster County Taxpayers' Council, Thursday night, in which the judge, as reported referred to a statement made by Mr. Boice before the Board of Supervisors to the effect that there was on hand in the county treasury about $300,000. There was a suggestion that such a "surplus" indicated that too much money had been taken from the taxpayers and that they had been burdened needlessly.

The county treasurer says that the judge was evidently laboring under an erroneous impression as to that $300,000, adding that it was not in fact a "surplus" at all, but simply the balance on hand in all county funds as of October 31, 1937.

Mr. Boice said that all county expenses for the remainder of the year and until new taxes are levied, must be paid from that $300,000 balance. That means expenses of the highway department and other departments, including salaries, etc.—all charges that must be met from county funds.

New taxes, said Mr. Boice, are not payable until January, 1938, and collectors do not make returns until February 1. Thus, said he, it will be recognized that this $300,000 must cover county bills and expenditures for about three months.

Mr. Boice stated that about the same condition existed a year ago and yet by the time new taxes began to come into the county treasury, the balance left on hand was comparatively small. He saw no reason why that should not be the case this year and that it would be found that the supervisors had not raised too large a fund by taxation a year ago, but that the amount levied was just about what was needed in order to carry the county through the year without making it necessary to borrow money.

Mexico, "D. F." The letters "D. F." after Mexico, the capital of the republic of Mexico, are the abbreviations of "Distrito Federal," which is Spanish for Federal District. The capital of Mexico, like the capital of the United States, is situated in a federal district governed by the central government, and when referring to their national capital, Mexicans say Mexico, D. F., just as we say Washington, D. C.

Fresh, pure pork sausage is a truly American contribution to the good things of our family table. Of course, they tell us that even as far back as Caesar's time "sausage" was known as a food, but that was a different variety entirely. The sausage that we know and delight to eat has its origin in the country kitchen where grandmother clipped, ground and seasoned the freshly butchered pork meat while grandfather prepared the hams for smoking, and the side meat for salting.

Broadway: "Madame X." One of the one motion picture standbys takes a new lease of life on the Broadway screen, thanks to the capabilities of Gladys George in the starring role. This famous dramatization of a woman's sacrifice has been made into a realistic film as it describes the plight of a girl who loved well but not wisely with its resulting disgrace. The court room scene, long famous for its emotional appeal, is done with a gripping brilliance and Miss George makes her character vibrant and alive. Others in the cast of this Metro-Goldwyn Mayer presentation include John Beal and Warren Williams.

Kington: "The Perfect Specimen." In an effort to create the same sparkling mood of the now famous "It Happened One Night," this First National production is taken from the same author with the talented Michael Curtiz as director. Although it fails to achieve its purpose completely the play is nevertheless a humorous and romantic drama of the woman-chase-man school of drama. The cast is headed by Errol Flynn and others include Joan Blondell, Edward Everett Horton, Beverly Roberts, Dick Foran, Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins. Here is a light and breezy bit of nonsense made enjoyable through the work of the featured players.

Orpheum: "Woman Chases Man." Miriam Hopkins carries the brunt of the honors in the first drama on the Orpheum double feature bill, a familiar but well done story of a poor girl who marries the rich young man with resulting consequences. Joel McCrea is also in the cast. "Fighting Texan" is the other attraction with Kermit Maynard riding high, wide and handsome in another tale of the winning of the southwest.

Tomorrow Broadway: "Ali Baba Goes to Town." In a musical comedy that pokes fun with a shy determination at the American national scene, "Ali Baba Goes to Town" at the Broadway with Eddie Cantor leading the procession. It's a typical Cantor film with much music, much laughter and the usual quota of pretty girls parading around in effective costumes. In this one Mr. Cantor has a dream and it takes him to the exotic east where he tells a Sultan how to achieve prosperity by modern methods. During the festivities, camera illusion makes it possible for the star to fly about on a magic carpet and he sings and jests his way from one situation into another. The show is satisfying entertainment dressed up with a flair that should appeal to audiences. Others in the cast are June Lang, Tony Martin, Roland Young and Louise Hovick. John Carradine and Alan Dinehart. A 20th Century-Fox presentation. Kington: Same. Orpheum: Same.

At last those quintuplets have started to talk, and now they'll never stop.

OFFICE CAT

The Moss Feature Syndicate, Greenboro, N. C.

A woman who formerly resided here comes back here after many years to see her friends.

Find what, to her, is an embarrassing condition, to wit: A few of these friends are not on speaking terms and she has to exercise care in making social engagements. That is what's usually termed small town stuff, though it can be duplicated everywhere, since cities are only aggregations of small towns. Nevertheless it is a deplorable condition. It can be remedied materially by cultivating greater toleration and a wider viewpoint. Trouble with most of us is this: Our minds are local—they don't reach out beyond neighborhood limits. If they did they'd be slower in making harsh judgments on the human units around them. High authority says none are perfect in this world. And good citizenship consists mainly in being charitable and getting along with imperfect folks like ourselves.

Just Being Happy

Just being happy is a fine thing to do. Look on the bright side rather than on the blue. Sad or sunny musing is largely in your choosing. And just being happy is a brave work and true. Just being happy helps other souls along. Their burdens may be heavy and they not strong. Your own skies will lighten if others' skies you brighten. By just being happy with a heart full of song.

Some experiences which appear to be disasters become, in retrospect, veritable life-savers.

The prosecuting attorney had encountered a rather difficult witness. At length, answered, he asked him whether he was acquainted with any of the jury. "Yes, sir," replied the witness, "more than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?" demanded the man of law.

The other thought quickly. "If it comes to that," he replied, "I am willing to swear that I know more than all of 'em put together!"

Colored Parson—Brother Jones, that was the best chicken evab Ah ed. Whereat did you all obatin such a delectable fow?

Brother Jones—Pahson, when yo' preaches a good sermon does Ah ask whereat yo' obtained it? Ah craves de same forbearance from you."

It wouldn't matter greatly what people did in following the dictates of their consciences if they were not so insistent upon everybody else following them too.

It is bad to be absent-minded: "It is funny I do not remember limping when I left home," said the absent-minded professor as he walked down the street, with one foot on the curb and the other in the gutter."

A young flying officer, stationed somewhere in Egypt, while flying near the Great Pyramids, carrying out exercises in navigation, and working with a sextant to discover his exact position, suddenly turned to the pilot and said, "Take off your hat!"

"Why?" asked the pilot. "Because, according to my calculations, we are now inside St. Paul's Cathedral."

In an unfamiliar atmosphere the professor was trying to make conversation. Prof.—The Romans were fond of card games.

Swiss Young Thing—Oh, yes, I know; wasn't it a man called Horatius who held the first bridge party?

A sign in a Buffalo, N. Y., restaurant reads: "What foods these morsels be!"

Mr. Ewig Speaks Before Talmidim

Mr. Ewig began his talk before Talmidim by commenting upon the recent address of Prof. Bowman. He then spoke about the problems confronting the Jewish youth of today. He said that the main problem facing Jewish youth is that of racial antagonism. This dislike is found mostly in business and Jews, on account of their religion, seem to be excluded in many places. This does not apply to all business; there are broad-minded people in the business world. He then gave some simple advice on how to get along with neighbors. After Mr. Ewig's address, a short business meeting was held. Two names of prospective members were brought up and will be voted upon at the next meeting. After collection of dues the meeting was adjourned.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

2 Features in News Cause Change in Business Pulse

Two rather unusual features in the news of yesterday, as indicating a decided change in sentiment, in some quarters at least, were statements that rail labor was no longer in favor of government ownership of the carriers and is backing the roads in their attempt to secure increased income, and a dispatch from Washington that there was among officials and in congressional quarters there an increasing realization that the theory of "sunking the rich" had been carried too far and was resulting in a serious restriction of the flow of capital to trade and industry.

President Roosevelt of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers supported the railroads' plea for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates and said the move should have the support of the public. The National Industrial Traffic League, which has opposed freight increases in the past, urged a speedy settlement of the question, although making no statement directly favoring the increase.

The Washington correspondent of the Wall Street Journal says of the action of the House subcommittee in approving a revision of the capital gains tax is "one of the most significant economic proposals that has been made in Washington in many months." He adds that "the almost incredible fact about it is that it (the tax revision plan) embodies a capital gains tax plan for the special benefit of individual taxpayers in the higher income brackets. Its final adoption by Congress would be a distinct step towards 'unsinking' the rich."

You Can Control Weight to the Pound

"However did you do it?" says Mrs. Portly to Mrs. Slim, who has a girlish figure again. "I just peck at food and stay fat while you don't skip a course."

But your pecks are all at high-calory food, Mrs. Portly. Go on a low-calory diet as Mrs. Slim did. Eat freely of the many tasty foods that have few fattening calories and lots of healthy vitamins. You'll keep up your pep, brighten your eyes, clear your skin—and steadily lose two hated, bulky pounds each week.

Pass up such tidbits as the two nut caramels you nibbled during your call on Mrs. A. They had 200 fattening calories. Then you finished that bag of pecans. Six brought home and added 286 more. So what good did it do to peck at your dinner when you'd eaten 486 calories before starting?

Mrs. Slim accepted only tea from Mrs. A. Plain or with lemon. It has no calories. Now she's ready for a filling dinner: 1 glass tomato juice, 1 slice ham, 1 medium potato, 1/2 cup spinach, 1 medium banana. Only 370 calories. Even if she adds a small pat of butter, the meal's only 420 calories.

Does Mrs. Slim skip meals? Not she. Her favorite breakfast is 1 cup orange juice, 1-egg omelet, 2 slices Melba toast, black coffee. Satisfying, but only 250 calories.

Will you be able to say "no" to your pet high-calory foods? Of course you will. Satisfy your cream-puff cravings on an "Indulgence Day"—you can have one every two weeks—and for a mid-morning pick-up take fruit juices or skim-milk.

Our 40-page booklet, CHANGE YOUR WEIGHT FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE, gives you two weeks of low-calory menus easy to adapt to family meals. Calory chart, everesides.

Send 15c for our booklet, CHANGE YOUR WEIGHT FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Bedaux, who was to have guided Windsor on his now postponed industrial survey of the United States, reiterated a denial of any Fascist connection. American labor organization charges that the Duke of Windsor had chosen "an arch-enemy of labor" as a guide for his American tour brought a postponement of the trip that was to have started November 6.

"I cannot afford to associate with Fascists," Bedaux said. "I am purely an international consulting engineer. I have never had any connection with politics and never will."

(Bedaux is the inventor of a factory work system which labor men call the "stretch-out.")

Final Plans for Senior "Y" Basketball League

High School Team Prepares for Tilt Thanksgiving Day

Another scrimmage between possible makeshift lineups was due today when Coach G. Warren Kias, Kingston High School coach, and his two assistants, Ed Sylvester and A. J. Bruckert, were on hand to spot the weaknesses before the final game with Newburgh next Thanksgiving Day at the Fair Grounds.

At present the entire squad making up the roster when the Kiasmen tangle with the Goldbacks is in perfect shape except Joe Garland, a lineman. As all accidents usually happen before game time, Garland's was no exception. While in school the other day he slipped down the stairs and injured his right hand. However, Garland's mishap isn't being considered as serious but in order to avoid further injury, Joe was ordered to take the day off. Aside from this the high school's gridiron athletes are in excellent shape.

In Wednesday's scrimmage Coach Kias limited the boys to a shorter drill than was expected as he wanted to have another one today. But for the time the local gridironers displayed plenty of speed and anticipation of humbling the Eldermen when the two meet next Thursday. The highlights of the scrimmage were long runs by Tommy Maines, Jack Halstein and Ken Hopper. Bill Meagher, mainstay of the Kiasmen's passing department, again showed off plenty of forwards. The number 1 team with a mixture of first and second stringers won the game when Maines sliced off tackle for a touchdown on the upper end of the field.

Thursday's practice Coach Kias dressed blocking and new types of offensive formations. Co-Captain Bill Meagher barked out signals with full vigor and kept his men plunging for the entire session. At the end of the day's work Ed Sylvester supervised the Varsity while Kias took over the reins of the second stringers at the dummy workout.

Maple Leaf Offense Gives Team Leadership

By The Associated Press. It doesn't take a Sherlock Holmes to discover what's making the Toronto Maple Leafs click, or what's wrong with Detroit's Red Wings, in the current hockey wars.

The Leafs are making goals; the championship Wings aren't. But, while that's the answer to the pace-setting position Toronto is enjoying in the international section of the National Hockey League, you'll have to look deeper to uncover the methods by which the Boston Bruins have remained in the unbeaten class and at the head of the American division, despite a somewhat haphazard scoring record.

The Toronto system is simple. Based on the theory that the best defense is a good offense, the Leafs have spread-eagled the league in point of scoring and have remained undefeated in five games, although their record shows three ties, the latest of which was a rough and tumble 6-4 affair with the Montreal

A large percentage of the senior membership of the Y. M. C. A. was present Friday night, November 12 to discuss the organization of a house basketball league. It was decided that league games be played on Friday nights to prevent interference with the Church Basketball League and the Industrial League nights. Tonight teams will be selected from the members who intend to participate and practice games will be played. The deadline for entering the league will be 7:30 tonight. League games will be played beginning Friday, November 26 and continue until three rounds have been completed.

New Scoring System. A system of scoring has been devised whereby points will be decided upon the outcome of each game and team representation. A team will be given five points for winning a game with an additional point added for each team member participating for at least one quarter. Two points will be given to the losing team, plus the additional point per player. In other words a team using its eight players will have a total of 13 points upon winning, or ten (10) points for playing and losing. On the other hand a team which uses only five men in order to insure victory will get only 10 points, whereas the losing team by using its eight members can be the winning team, also with ten points.

The object of this scoring basis is to insure full team representation at games and give the poorer players of each team an opportunity to play at least one quarter. The teams totaling the greatest number of points will be adjudged the winner of the contest and will receive awards. Any one interested in participation who hasn't yet signed up, please notify Charles A. Henke, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

Fordham Seeks Rose Bowl Bid

New York, Nov. 19 (AP).—There's one thing refreshing about the Fordham Rams, who risk their undefeated record against St. Mary's tomorrow at the Polo Grounds. They admit they want to go to the Rose Bowl so bad they can taste it.

They never have been coy on the question, the Rams. Every year since Jimmy Crowley took over the Polish corridor, they've been wearing buttons inscribed: "From Rose Hill to Rose Bowl." And every year something painful has happened to the Rams just about the time they thought they had the big game sewed up. Now they have their chin up again, and it looks like the best chance they've ever had. If they get past the Gaels tomorrow and then trim N. Y. U., the boys with the unpronounceable names will be about a 2-1 shot to represent the East on New Year's Day.

From what Coach "Slip" Madigan of St. Mary's and the flock of newspapermen who accompanied the Gaels East, say, there seems to be no doubt that the coast is determined to have a change of faces in the Rose Bowl. They declare that both Pittsburgh and Alabama are out for this year, at least.

It Happened On The Gridiron

Weslaco (Tex.) junior high defeated Raymondville (Tex.) high, 56-0, in 1935. At one time, when the ball was on Weslaco's 15-yard line, Halfback Torres ran 85 yards. The pass was called back and it didn't make much difference, leaving Raymondville's winning ways as inexplicable as ever.

The immediate effect of last night's firing in New York, Montreal and Chicago was to boost the Black Hawks into sole possession of second place in the American section, deadlock the Americans and Canadians for second place in the international division, increase Toronto's international to three points, and leave Boston's American edge at two.

BOWLING

Thursday evening in a Colonial match between the Bull Market and Mt. Marion Inn, Larry Petersen bowled 214, 217 and 210 for a 641 record. Petersen has been cracking the pins in great fashion this week. On Tuesday he had a 668 record in the Silver Palace circuit.

Captain Shimek of the Wiltywack golfers made a 576 in their sweep over the Artistic Beauty Shoppe.

In the Y. M. C. A. circuit, Randy Kelder hit the nines for 625 with 215, 188 and 222 scores. The Everett and Treadwell bowlers hit a new record on games with 551, 525 and 573.

This was the first victory for the locals. The Colonials in order to keep in the winning column will have a job on their hands for on Saturday night in Philadelphia they will meet the Philadelphia Sphas.

Port Jervis Cops Here Sunday Against Wasps

Birdseye View Of Sports Events

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Nov. 19 (AP).—Billy Beauchamp and Henry Armstrong, who tangle in Madison Square Garden tonight, grew up in the same town (St. Louis) but have never met. When John Carroll University plays Western Reserve at Cleveland tomorrow, John Lucas, sophomore center for John Carroll from Sharpsville, Pa., will line up against John Lucas, Western Reserve sophomore halfback from Sharpsville, Pa. Both are Slovaks, old pals and high school companions (but no relation). And if Messrs. Ripley and Hix want proof, we can furnish plenty of it. Lou Gehrig, the Yankee from man, is due in Hollywood Monday to begin work on "Laughing Senator."

So far as the football reporters are concerned, the most popular coach to come to town is "Slip" Madigan of the St. Mary's Gaels. (That feller has a way with him.) The anti-Nazi crowd has started its boycott of the Max Schmeling-Harry Thomas fight by picketing Mike Jacobs' Hippodrome, although the fight will be held in Madison Square Garden. Note to California: We have it fairly straight Pitt will decline a Rose Bowl bid even if one is tendered.

No four-star football special this week account conditions being too uncertain. But here are a couple of lusty two-star specials: Columbia over Dartmouth and Stanford over California. Western sports writers are carrying the torch for Ray Mickovsky of the Case School at Cleveland, to make the Associated Press "Little All-American." Mrs. "Slip" Madigan had to leave the St. Mary's football special at Chicago and fly back to California because "Slip, Jr." ailed five, was stricken with pneumonia. Alabama fans are hating us up for picking Georgia Tech to beat the Tide. How did some of those wires get past the censor?

Extra! The Associated Press All America football team (official in most books and the one all the boys want to make) comes out December 4. Dick Friedlich of the San Francisco Chronicle thought he was all set to marry Miss Betty Turner, San Francisco beauty and enjoy a honeymoon at the Tanforan Race Track. Ten minutes after the ceremony he got marching orders to board the St. Mary's Special. Incidentally the special brought along 150 fans who paid $215 each for the trip. Bob Pastor will get $10,000 for meeting the Tony Galento-LeRoy Haynes winner in Philadelphia.

Jimmy Dykes may be talking out of his hat but here's what the guy says: He will trade every member of the White Sox except Luke Appling, Monte Stratton, Mike Kreevich and Luke Sewell. Also, he wouldn't part with the banana-eating Zeke Bonura for

Jimmy Foxx, Hal Trosky or Joe Kuhel. (Is he still so hot in Chicago?) Right here we start nominations for an All America football manager with the name of Earl Luke of Louisiana State. They say this boy really is the tops. Pitt had better look out for a bird named Hackney if it goes to Durham to play Duke a week from tomorrow.

Bunched in Lead
Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 19 (AP).—Three players, Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., Ben Loving of Rumson, N. J., and Bob Stupp of Chicago, were bunched in the lead with sub-par 70's today at the start of the second half of the 36-hole mid-south open golf tournament.

Wasson, N. C., Nov. 19 (AP).—If they play the best of St. Mary's after this one it probably will be in a minor and plaintive key. Fordham.

Pitt-Penn State: Pitt's due for a big let-down and Penn State's rabbit backs and clever passers may give the Panthers an unpleasant afternoon. Not enough, however, to predict anything but a Pitt victory.

Columbia-Dartmouth: Columbia, with Ludman pitching nothing but strikes, will be one of the day's very best long shots but Dartmouth's crack line and versatile backs should enable the Green to wind up an unbeaten season on the right note.

Syracuse-Colgate: If Syracuse doesn't get partial revenge for last night's defeat tomorrow, the corner postively will no longer believe in Santa Claus. Syracuse, despite the soggy turf, Minahan, DeGraff, Tiano and Thomas all reeled off snappy marches.

Returning home after their brief one-game road trip, the Yellow Jackets will continue their campaign by hooking up with the Port Jervis Coppers who were slated to appear here previous in the schedule but due to some difficulties, the game was postponed. After the Troy battle last Sunday Gus Steigerwald with a confident grin contacted with the Tri-State aggregation and agreed to a game on Sunday. The game will begin at 2:30.

Last week at La Salle Field, Troy, the Stingers performed in a way that even convinced the Bearcat followers that they were the cream of the crop in this section. Although outwitted and outmaneuvered, the local muleskin pack displayed an outstanding brand of ball. Only a few assorted tough breaks basted the Bearcats who were dumbfounded at the way the Wasps opened with passes. Bill Thomas flipped the majority of the aeriels and capable receivers as Mac Tiano, Eddie Minahan and Lou Glenn, completed the show. Aside from a wet gridiron, the locals would have probably come through as victors. Despite the soggy turf, Minahan, DeGraff, Tiano and Thomas all reeled off snappy marches.

Port Jervis Very Good
On the Port Jervis side of the ledger is found another crack outfit which always displays a good game of ball. When talking of a Port Jervis Cup tussle against the Jackets, most fans think of another D'SO League contest. Aside from a few players on the locals, all have performed under the Maroon and White banner while the same holds forth for the Port representatives. The visitors are composed of such stars as Quinn, Pepper, Garrity, O'Neil and Terry. While in high school Quinn and Pepper thrilled the fans continuously with exploits on the turf and when they meet with the Wasps, Sunday a corking game will positively be the outcome. Tonight at 7 o'clock the Jackets will hold their usual drill at the Fair Grounds under the lights.

Although the squad isn't in physical shape it is expected that by Sunday all will be ready to play. During the Troy battle Jimmy Tiano, Mike Marchuk, Ed Cherny and Bill Thomas were roughed a bit.

Lehigh-Lafayette: It will be no mean feat if Lehigh's Engineers succeed in ending the unbeaten season on the right note.

Plenty of Action Is Promised Tonight At the Auditorium

Football Forecaster "Gallops Off in All Directions," Picks "Winners," But Isn't So Certain

By HERBERT W. PARKER

New York, Nov. 19 (AP).—This corner takes one hasty, birds-eye view of the week's football slate and calls dramatically for a horse in order to emulate the famous Leacock hero who mounted his trusty steed and "galloped madly off in all directions." No equine transportation being forthcoming, it seems valor will have to but for discretion, so here goes:

Stanford-California: This one decides the Pacific Coast Conference race and probably the far western representative in the Rose Bowl. That's a lot of mental load for youngsters to carry. Despite Stanford's steady improvement and its marked ability to translate every break into a score, the nod goes to undefeated California.

Harvard-Yale: The pressure is on unbeaten Yale but just why that should be came for Yale is hard to fathom. With Clint Frank doing business at the old stand and ready to think up all the answers, the Blue has shown no tendency to flinch up when the chips are down. Harvard, with Struck and Beson ready, will be tough but the ballot is cast for Yale.

Notre Dame-Northwestern: The nomination is Notre Dame but the Irish will do their followers a big favor if they quit stalling in the scoring zone.

Bells of St. Mary's: Fordham-St. Mary's. If they play the best of St. Mary's after this one it probably will be in a minor and plaintive key. Fordham.

Pitt-Penn State: Pitt's due for a big let-down and Penn State's rabbit backs and clever passers may give the Panthers an unpleasant afternoon. Not enough, however, to predict anything but a Pitt victory.

Washington State-Duke: Not exactly a picnic for the Blue Devils but Duke should win.

Arkansas-Georgia Washington: Arkansas' too tough on home ground.

Centenary-Texas Tech: Out of the silk topper, Centenary.

Iowa State-Kansas State: Kansas State.

defeated, untied Leopards. Lafayette.

Georgetown-Maryland: Georgetown's stronger than most critics suspected but Maryland has the greater scoring punch and rates the edge.

Actually Picks Minnesota: Minnesota-Wisconsin: This old war-horse among football rivalries should be closer than it's been for years but we'll take Minnesota.

Michigan-Ohio State: The comparative records are so heavily in Ohio State's favor that it's "must" outline to pick the Buckeyes.

Illinois-Chicago: In which the cards are stacked too heavily against the Maroons, Illinois.

Indiana-Purdue: Intra-state rivalry at its bitterest but Indiana's done far better against major opposition and is the choice.

Nebraska-Iowa: This vote for Nebraska expresses doubt that Iowa's offense can make any headway against the Husker defense.

Marquette-Duquesne: This should be the spot for Duquesne's first daylight triumph of the year.

Texas Christian-Rice: It's been a thankless task so far in trying to knock down Rice, but this slaphappy department casts a timorous vote for Christian.

Georgia-Auburn: Georgia came up with a real eye-opener last week but will take Auburn.

Florida-Georgia Tech: Tech looks too strong.

No Carolina Moonshine: North Carolina State-Duke: Not exactly a picnic for the Blue Devils but Duke should win.

Arkansas-Georgia Washington: Arkansas' too tough on home ground.

Centenary-Texas Tech: Out of the silk topper, Centenary.

Iowa State-Kansas State: Kansas State.

Washington State-Duke: Not exactly a picnic for the Blue Devils but Duke should win.

They'll take the box out of boxing tonight when the mayor's boxing committee presents an all-star "Carnival of Sluggers" program featuring Joe Furlin, of Middletown, and Frankie Baumgarten, Albany wildman, in the headliner of five rounds. One of the largest crowds of the season is expected at the municipal auditorium when the favorite slugger of the current season swing into action.

The "Carnival of Sluggers" program was conceived by Matchmaker Joe Kelly and Sam Riber as a means of paying tribute to popular favorites who have thrilled local fans with their slugger prowess in numerous contests during the current season. They are boys who will take two punches to give one and usually give the customers their money's worth in action.

One change in the card was announced this morning when, after physician's examination, Red Van Alstyne was ordered to pass up his date with Wildman (Clyde Steele of Poughkeepsie, Tommy King, sensational young Hudson boy, has been secured to battle the rough and ready Steele.

Boxing fans who have seen both in action predict a sensational brawl when Joe Furlin and Frankie Baumgarten clash in the main event. Furlin, a rugged veteran, is the state amateur middleweight champion and probably one of the toughest men in the amateur ranks.

"I'll knock that crown right off his block," Baumgarten said, when he signed for the fight. "Furlin is just a washed up old geezer and I'll be throwing leather at him until he drops," the Albany wildman snorted. Baumgarten, of course, has no cute tricks in his repertoire. He's a fighter of the old school, and just wades in and cuts loose until either he or his opponent hits the deck.

The semi-final between Steele and King will serve to introduce the Poughkeepsie Caveman to local fans after nearly six months' absence. Steele has been coveting the Newburgh show and they say he's picked up a lot of new tricks. But fundamentally Steele is the same unorthodox slugger who gives you a real show, win or lose.

The mayor's committee is confident that King will prove a real opponent for Steele. The Poughkeepsie youth has a large following of supporters here and he will have plenty of moral support at the ring-side.

Frankie Thompson, slam bang southpaw from Ballston Lake, is slated to battle Billy Pelez, of Albany. It has been said of Pelez that he can absorb more punishment than any boxer in the Adirondack A. A. U. On the other hand, Thompson has few peers when it comes to dishing out leather. Thompson is a battle scarred veteran who knows but one style—keep punching. The Ballston Lake sharpshooter has appeared here several times and never failed to please the spectators. You have to keep fighting to stay in the same ring with a lot of tough opponents and is confident he can come through tonight.

The opening five pits Irving van Kleeck, local southpaw, against Bobby Ranco, of Poughkeepsie. This bout looks as natural. The rivalry between the pair is bitter and it seems safe to predict the fight will be terminated by a knockout.

Several popular performers, notably Tiny Townsend and Jimmy Thomas, of Albany, are scheduled to appear in the three round preliminaries.

The entire card:

Main Events
Joe Furlin, Middletown, vs. Frankie Baumgarten, Albany, 155 pounds, 5 rounds.
Eddie Steele, Poughkeepsie, vs. Tommy King, Hudson, 150 pounds, 5 rounds.

Special Bout
Frankie Thompson, Ballston Lake, vs. Billy Pelez, 145, Albany, 5 rounds.
Irving Van Kleeck, Kingston, vs. Bobby Ranco, Pough

The Rev. Father O'Leary said that the Supreme Court was the referee in the game of constitutional government, and was the final arbiter in the matter of protecting the rights and liberties of the people and that those present should thank God each day that they were Americans and lived under a constitutional government.
